IN MEMORIAM

JOHN C. TALARICO

JULY 12, 1931 — APRIL 11, 1964

"We have but faith; we cannot know;
For knowledge is of things we see;
And yet we trust it comes from thee,
A beam of darkness; let it grow."

Tennyson

In his passing we have lost our principal, a great friend and an educator, one who has inspired us on to greater heights.

Some things can be replaced, but these deeds can only be substituted.

Memory of him will be entwined in our minds and hearts forever.

Soaring Through

Throughout the twelve years a student attends grade and high school, the times in which he lives change rapidly. Our 12 years have been no exception. While we have been in school, the color television, the H-bomb, and space travel have come into being.

Of these, space travel is the most publicized, and every American is familiar with John Glenn, Gordon Cooper, and the other astronauts. In a way, we are also astronauts. Our twelve years have flown by quicker than we realized. Our senior year was no exception. We went through it faster than we ever dreamed was possible.

We will always remember our dirty senior cords, winning basketball team, senior trip, and most of all, our wonderful experiences. Truly, we "SOARED THROUGH '63-'64."

Bruce Stanton checks the ledger account to determine whether or not the class has sufficient funds to take their trip through the East in the spring. Jim Harris, meanwhile, uses the adding machine to check some totals as Bill Day, Becky Bulger, and Mr. Roush look on.

Due to the fact that the class was financially stable, the seniors lone money-making project this year was the selling of Christmas cards. In the past, they set a record in their magazine campaign. Also during the junior year they sold candy in the fall.

DENNIS LEE SCHMIDT

Planning out the class meetings and the FFA meetings and then publicizing them are two common jobs of these presidents. The duties of these offices keep both Bruce, who is the class president, and Dennis, FFA president, quite busy.

Morning Routines Are Attended to Daily

As part of the morning routine, Mr. Butt gives freshman Cheryl Snyder a lunch ticket and an admission slip to get her into class after she was absent the previous day. This chore is usually handled by Mr. Taldrico , L.C.H.S. principal, but since he was absent this day, Mr. Butt filled in for him.

Another morning occurrence for the varsity athletic teams is the taking of vitamin pills. Dick Harris doles out Bill Day's share to him after taking some himself.

Roy Brinneman is shown in his daily job at the school cafeteria, that of serving milk to those who eat at the cafeteria. Sixth grader Joyce Day receives her glass of milk from Roy.

These are the six men who, in effect, direct the activities and make the policies of Liberty Center High School.

Mr. John C. Talarico leafs through a college catalog in his office. Mr. Talarico is our principal and is in charge of guidance at L. C. H. S.

Mr. Lloyd Biberstine is shown making out one of the numerous reports that he must complete in his duties as Superintendent of the Southern Wells school system.

Administration Plans Consolidated School

Pictured are the Southern Wells School Board members: Ward Showalter, Charles Day, Donald Williams, and Howard Baker. The school board has been very active due to the nature of school reorganization.

Mr. John Talarico, in addition to his administrative duties, teaches junior high English. Here he leads the seventh grade in their spelling lesson.

This is just one of many such tests that are administered throughout the year to the seventh and eighth graders as a requirement of their course.

In addition to spelling drills these young students study extensively on the eight parts of speech and the parts of a sentence. Book reports, composition work and vocabulary exercises are a few of the other units included in the junior high curriculum.

English Curriculum Includes Grammar, Lit

The English curriculum at Liberty Center includes four years of high school grammar and literature. The fourth year is an elective course recommended especially for those going on to college. In addition to the regular grammar, composition, literature classes, juniors and seniors may elect to take a semester of journalism and speech each. The journalism class had practical experience since they are in charge of putting out the Southern Wells school paper, "The Rebel Review," twice a year and the yearbook Memories, an 80 page volume.

Mrs. Brenda Payne, who teaches high school English, speech, and journalism, explains to seniors Phyllis Dulworth and DiAnne Jones, the way to use a reference book.

Students are to check author reference books for background material before giving their book reports.

Mrs. Mable Metz, head of the mathematics department, explains to some of the juniors in her advanced algebra class, how to use the library to find books pertaining to math.

Mrs. Metz, in addition to her teaching responsibility, is in charge of the library facilities at Liberty Center.

Mrs. Metz teaches all of the high school mathematics from freshman algebra to senior trigonometry and college algebra. In third period of each day, Mrs. Metz teaches a commercial course - business arithmetic. Even with all of this, Mrs. Metz still finds time to head the girl's physical education program.

Mathematics Program Covers Six Grades

Mr. Lewis Captain explains to Randy Raber and Bruce Stanton how an old crank-type telephone was constructed. Mr. Captain teaches at Chester H. S. in the morning and travels to Liberty Center to teach junior high math and physics in the afternoon.

Mr. Captain is responsible for giving the junior high students a solid foundation in arithmetic before he sends them into high school. His third and final class at Liberty is physics, which juniors and seniors may take in alternating years with chemistry. This course is recommended for the academic curriculum.

Mr. Robert Mossburg checks his mailbox in the morning to see what mail he received. Mr. Mossburg graduated from L. C. H. S. in 1958 and returned to his alma mater to head the social studies department this year.

The history department for both junior high and high school is conducted by Mr. Mossburg. This includes seventh and eighth grade history with the latter half of the eighth year being spent on Indiana history.

Three years of social studies are offered to the high school students. The sophomores are required to study world history while the juniors concentrate on the history of our own country. Seniors devote their final year with a semester on government and the final 18 weeks on sociology.

Men Head History, Business Departments

Mr. Richard Butt supervises the office practice class. Mr. Butt is the head of the business department, as well as the head of basketball, baseball and track.

In addition to the office practice class, Mr. Butt teaches bookkeeping, typing, and boy's physical education. The office practice class, which he is shown with, meets for one semester with the second semester being business law.

Miss Sharon Bickel, home economics instructor, shows eighth graders Jill Kober and Cammy Lieurance how to use one of the dials on the school's electric stoves.

In addition to teaching home economics to junior high and high school girls, Miss Bickel also teaches junior high science.

Miss Bickel and Mr. Roush are also busy with extra-curricular activities as they are in charge of the FHA and FFA, respectively, during the school year. This not only includes monthly meetings, but also joint sponsorship of a spring dance.

Mr. Roush is the leader of the summer boy's 4-H program, without credit as honor, but which involves a lot of work. Approximately 65 Liberty Center youths are under Mr. Roush's direction.

Vocational Teachers Guide Our Thinking

Mr. James Roush, head of the agricultural department at L. C. H. S, explains to Phil Dawson the proper way to fill out the agriculture notebook. Dennis Schmidt and John Collins listen attentively. Mr. Roush also teaches freshman biology, health and safety, and the book portion of freshman driver ttaining.

Mr. William Hernandez, instrumental and band instructor for Liberty Center School, as well as the three other Southern Wells Schools, helps sixth grader John Miller hold his cornet.

In addition to the regular bands at the four Southern Wells Schools, Mr. Hernandez also formed and directs a select band known as the "Blue Band," which consists of the best musicians from the four schools.

Band, Vocal Directors Have Eventful Year

While the fourth grade class sings in the background, Mrs. Betty Cline, vocal music instructor, plays the piano and leads their singing. Mrs. Cline also teaches vocal music at Jackson Township School.

Under the direction of Mrs. Cline, the combined high school choruses of Liberty and Jackson presented a Christmas cantata, "Night of Miracles."

Miss Martha Linn checks four of her third grade art students' drawings. This is the first time in several years that Liberty Center has had a qualified art teacher for all six elementary grades; previously art was taught by the individual teachers. Miss Linn teaches at all four Southern Wells schools, thus usually spending one day a week at Liberty.

Art, Driver Training Taught Once a Week

Both Mr. Carnes and Miss Linn spend one day each week at Liberty Center. By this arrangement they also serve at other Wells County Schools. Miss Linn teaches at all four Southern Wells Schools.

Liberty Center has 13 full time teachers with 5 teachers who serve the school part-time in science, math, music, driver training, and art.

Mr. Eldon Carnes, driver's education instructor, is shown at the left leaving the training car, about to embark upon a day's duties. Tuesday is Mr. Carnes' day to teach at Liberty Center.

Approximately thirty-five students are instructed in the fundamentals of operating a car during the two semesters of the school year.

Playground Watch Adds to Busy Schedule

While sitting in the hall at noon, Mrs. Donna Simpson is approached by two of her second grade students. There seems to be some question concerning the lunchroom. Mrs. Simpson is explaining how the large amounts of food are prepared.

Keeping watch over the playground activities is a part of a teacher's busy schedule. Above, Mrs. Lenna Rittenhouse and Mrs. Donna Simpson stop for a short chat while the children play.

Industrious Teachers Strive to Stimulate

In teaching reading, Mrs. Flora Kirtley, third grade teacher, uses picture association with words. This way she feels that students can remember the words that they find difficult. Above Mrs. Kirtley is showing her technique to Mrs. Frances Clark, fourth grade teacher. Often the grade teachers exchange ideas so that they might better teaching standards.

At the right, Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Kirtley look on as LuAnn Bailey is about to operate the new milk machine. Dale Martin and Marsha Grover wait anxiously for their turn.

Grade Pupils' Interests

Mr. Ronald Decker, at the right, is shown leaving the school office, about to embark upon his duties as the sixth grade teacher. This is Mr. Decker's first year of teaching at Liberty Center.

As the sixth graders will be entering junior high next year, Mr. Decker is preparing them for the big step. This preparation comes not only in studies, but in discipline also.

Besides serving as a teacher, Mr. Decker is the coach of the fifth and sixth grades basketball team.

Planning ahead is essential in anything one does. Mrs. Violet Brane, fifth grade teacher, is pictured at the left filling out the teacher's plan book for the coming weeks.

Arithmetic, spelling, reading, history, health, English, and various other subjects must be made to fit properly into a busy schedule. Mrs. Brane must allow time for the fifth graders' art and music classes.

Bus Drivers, Janitor, Cooks Assist School

Bus drivers Orin Bowman, Ben Soper, Pat Garrett, Ike Huffman, and Dwight Pace discuss a variety of subjects ranging from the weather, to sports, politics, and the conduct of the youngsters on their respective school buses after they are unloaded in the morning.

As one of his early morning duties, Mr. Harold Jones, L. C. H. S. custodian, unlocks the doors to the school. Early each morning he can be found entering the school to fire the boiler. "Mike," as Mr. Jones is commonly called, is always ready to be of assistance when he is needed. Keeping the school warm and clean and keeping all equipment running properly are just a few of Mike's tasks.

Dorma Haiflich and Doris Dunnaway, school cooks, prepare to place another pan of fresh yeast rolls in the school's new ovens.

Our school help is sometimes forgotten or barely remembered in the mad rush of school activities, but without these eight individuals the functions of our school could never take place.

Activities

Reorganization Allows L.C. Band to Join

Along with the Southern Wells Schools reorganization, came reorganization of the respective bands. Under the direction of Mr. William Hernandez practices were held during the summer. At the beginning of the school year sixty-three individuals were selected to march in the Southern Wells Blue Band.

The band was rewarded for their hard work as they placed fifth in a field of twenty at the Bluffton Street Fair Band Contest.

Mr. Hernandez is shown ready to lead the band in a practice number.

High School Publications Readied by Student Staffs

Shown here checking past issues of the school newspaper are the co-editors, Carolyn Leist and Karol Kirtley.

At right, Mrs. Brenda Payne directs yearbook co-editors Jim Harris and Bill Day on how to lay out grade pages.

Taking time out from a busy schedule, the journalism class congregates for a picture. This class is in charge of publishing a four-school newspaper twice a year in addition to writing local stories for the other six issues.

Junior-Senior Class Play Headlines April

A class play is not just a production put on for two or three nights. There is a lot of behind-the-scenes planning and work to be done. One of the first things to decide is the play choice. Shown here, Bill Day checks one book of plays as Donna Campbell, Reta Culp, Carolyn Leist and Bruce Stanton are ready to give possible suggestions.

Due to the lack of students in the junior and senior classes of Liberty the past few years, the class play has been a combined junior-senior project. Last year the juniors and seniors presented "The Nervous Wreck," a three-act comedy, on April 4,5,6. At press time, the actual play had not been selected for this year.

Class plays are a good experience for those who like to act and have a little "ham" in them. A play also aids one in speaking before an audience.

As Barbara Chism points to the calendar as a suggestion for the date of the play, Becky Bulger checks through another book of plays.

The early part of April was decided upon as the date for the play, which is presented in the school auditorium on a Thursday and Friday evening.

Gradesters Use Recesses to Let Off Steam

On an unusually warm day during the winter months, these young students are seen on the playground equipment during one of their two daily recesses.

The grade children also use this equipment during noon hour after they have finished lunch.

When the snow falls and the temperature drops, the gradesters are forced inside. Some of the children stay in their rooms while others, shown here, take to the gymnasium for their daily recreation. Here they can participate in such varied activities as basketball, tag, and rope skipping.

During the lunch hour, all students eating at the cafeteria must walk over a block to their dinner. In order to provide for the children's safety, high school students serve as patrol boys. Here senior Dick Harris is shown.

Sports

Lions Move Forward Together

Bill Day, 5'11" senior guard, was probably most effective against a zone defense with his outside shooting ability. Bill took over the starting position after Denny Archbold fractured his ankle.

Bruce Stanton, 6'2" senior forward, was probably best known for his powerful driving ability and outstanding board work. Bruce averaged in double-figures throughout most of the season and was a prime factor in many Liberty victories.

Dick Harris, 6'5" senior center, combined his towering height and his outstanding shooting ability to lead the team in the scoring column. Dick also led the county in scoring this year with a 23+ point average.

Senior guard, Denny Archbold at 5'9 1/2", led the Lions as captain and playmaker of the team. After being hampered with a broken ankle at the first of the season, Denny made an impressive comeback to help the team through the 4-Way and sectional tourneys.

As They Practice Drills for Coming Games

Teaming his extremely accurate shooting ability and his lightning quick moves, Randy Raber, at left, 5'11" junior guard and forward, more than proved his worth as a member of the starting five.

At right, Jim Harris, 6' senior forward, became noted as the top defensive man on the team. Jim also proved valuable in the rebounding department, as he pulled down many offensive and defensive rebounds.

Lions' Success Covers Season, Tourneys

Liberty's tall center, Dick Harris, is shown jumping against Horst Kroner of Jackson in the third quarter of a January 31 Liberty-Jackson basketball game, which was played on the Lion's home court.

Denny Archbold, Bill Day (24), Jerome Markley (14), and Bruce Stanton anxiously await the tip.

Our victorious Lions receive the trophy for winning the Southern Wells 4-Way Tourney from Superintendent Lloyd Biberstine. This marks the third consecutive year that the Lions have rolled over opposition to capture the 4-Way title.

Many Factors Contribute to Lions' Record

Coach Burt checks the shot chart of the Ossian ball game in an effort to find changes that could be made in the Lions offense and defense.

As Dick Harris attempts a shot from the corner, Bruce Stanton and Bill Day move toward the basket to get a possible rebound. Many Lion victories could be looked back upon and attributed to accurate shooting and strong board work.

Varsity Pepsters Cheer Team to Victories

Most people feel that cheering is the only job for the pepsters. Well, varsity cheerleaders Karol Kirtley, Delice Snyder, and Sonja Cardin are seen here fulfilling one of their other duties.

Making signs is a big part of the girls' responsibility as they often boost the fans' response and the team's morale. In addition to the signs, the girls plan the pep sessions. Pom-poms were made with the assistance of the pep club officers for the sectional.

"Is everybody ready?" Varsity cheerleaders Delice Snyder, Sonja Cardin, and Karol Kirtley give the final signal to the pep club as they are about to start a welcoming cheer. Sonja and Delice are in their second year of cheerleading, while Karol is completing her third year.

B-Team Captures Trophy at 4-Way Tourney

An improved record over last year's B-team is mainly attributed to the fact that Coach Butt had more than twice the bench strength. Here, freshman Jim Burkholder is shown going after a rebound in the Jackson game. In addition to a better season record, the B-team captured a 4-Way tourney trophy at West Lancaster.

B-Team, Junior High Pepsters Cheer Teams

Shirley Biberstein and Judy Smith showed much pep during the basketball season as they cheered the B-Team on to victory. The high point of the season was the January 25 winning of a B-Team Tourney. Being able to assist the team in cutting the nets was a big thrill for both girls.

This year marked the first time that the girls served as high school cheerleaders. Shirley previously led yells in her junior high years. Next year the girls plan to be in the tryouts for a position on the varsity cheering squad.

Seventh grader Vickie Haiflich and eighth grader Cammy Lieurance are pictured in a practice session before an important junior high game. The girls had many new experiences while leading cheers for the junior high team.

Cammy served previously as a cheerleader when she was in the seventh grade, and also in the fifth and sixth grades. Being a cheerleader in the sixth grade helped Vickie to gain experience.

Junior High Participates in Athletics

The seventh and eighth grade baseball team provided some exciting action for their fans, in addition to providing experience for high school hopefuls. The team had a 3-1 record and were Southern Wells champs.

ROW 2: Steve Clark, Kent Inskeep, Ron Westfall, and Gary Dawson
ROW 3: Coach Ronald Decker, Hizzie Eldridge, Thomas Fagan, Kris Dunn, and Bob Bailey

Our junior high basketball team did not seem to jell and as a result could never get on the winning track. However, as there are several seventh graders and a good team of sixth graders, fortunes for the junior high should get better next year.

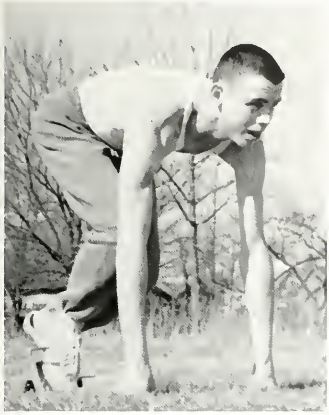
Track was not an emphasized sport until a few years ago, at which time Coach Richard Butt came to Liberty and encouraged boys to participate in the track and field program. Since then, interest has been revived in track. We also had a cross country meet last fall in which several boys took part.

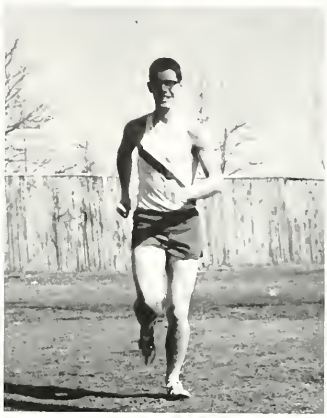
Over the past three years under the leadership of Coach Butt, many new track records have been set. Among these are the high jump, the mile relay, the pole vault, and the broad jump.

Dick Harris gives the baton to Bruce Stanton in a practice hand-off for the mile relay.

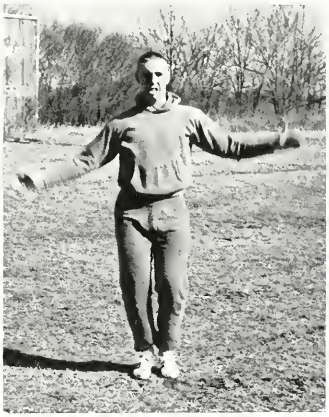
ıs Every Person Strives to Do His Best



Jim Harris is set in the starting blocks for a trial run of the 440 yard dash. Jim also participated in the mile relay and the broad jump.



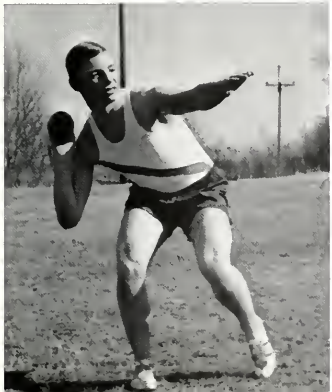
Bill Day finishes a practice run of his favorite event, the mile run. Bill also runs the half mile and the mile relay.



Here Bruce Stanton is preparing to putt the shot. In addition to this event, Bruce runs in the 440 yard dash and the mile relay.

Shown warming up for his event by going through calisthenics is Denny Archbold. Denny specializes in the high and the low hurdles.

Shown going over a high hurdle is Dick Harris, which is one of his best events, along with the high jump and the half mile.



Lions' Baseball Team Breaks .500 Average

Juniors Sell Concessions at Games

Working hard to complete the reconstruction of the concession stand before the opening of the basketball season, the junior officers are preparing to give the stand its final coating of paint.

Watching as secretary Sonja Cardin brings in the paint, are president Randy Raber, treasurer Karol Kirtley, vice-president John Collins, and sponsor Mr. Robert Mossburg.

ophomores Plan Money Campaigns

Lion Cubs Learn Value of Sportsmanship

ROW 2: Kenny Zook, Rodney Mossburg, Tim Huffman, Brent Cardin

ROW 3: Ted Harris, Billy McElhaney, Dennis Armantrout, Nicky Dunn, David Cole, and Coach Ronald Decker

Shown in a posed formation are junior high yell leaders Trudy Funk, Susan Inskeep, kneeling, and Patty Gerwig, Joyce Day, standing.

The 5th and 6th grade basketball team had a better than average season this year by finishing with a 4 win 3 loss record. Under the leadership of Coach Ronald Decker, the cubs improved steadily as the season progressed. The sixth graders should form a nucleus for a stronger junior high team next year.

Sixth Graders Take Math Speed Tests

Eager sixth graders watch Mr. Ronald Decker as he points out the results of the speed tests in arithmetic which the sixth graders took.

These tests help determine the students ability to mentally solve various arithmetic problems.

Third Graders Practice Subtraction

Subtraction problems are one of the easy challenges that the third graders strive for each day, with the help of Mrs. Flora Kirtley.

Learning to subtract are three of the pupils in her class - Debra Masterson, Karen Stroud, and Rosie Ford.

Second Graders React to Decorations

After Mrs. Donna Simpson had put up the door decorations for Halloween, Susan Burge, Mike Poulson, and Jeffery Newman, second graders, showed their amazement at the skeleton the next morning.

Besides putting up Halloween decorations, they have also decorated for Christmas, and for Easter.

As Mrs. Lenna Rittenhouse called out the number seven, Paul Carey went to the board and picked up the proper card and showed it to his classmate Debra Beeks. This is just one way that the first graders learn to study their numbers. Besides learning numbers the students in the first grade also learn to read and write.

THE MOON and beyond

Bright, new horizons await today's students . . . new technologies . . . new advancements on all fronts . . . even the moon and whatever lies beyond.

How far you go in this space age depends partly on your imagination but primarily on your education and training. Conquering new horizons will demand more of today's graduates—more knowledge, more skills, more training and more specialization.

Our Free Enterprise system, with its high living standards, gives you an opportunity to "shoot for the moon" in any field. Whether or not your target is reached depends on how well trained you are to launch your career.

Stop the Presses! Liberty Strikes Again

Coach Butt smiles as he cuts down the last strand of net, as a reward for coaching the Lions to the 1964 Sectional Basketball Championship, their first since 1944.

As the fans in the background cheer, the Liberty Center regulars receive the trophy as a symbol of their Sectional Championship. This was the first year the IHSAA has awarded a trophy for winning a sectional title, and the Lions got the first one from the Bluffton Sectional.

Shown in a victory pose, the mighty Lions clench their fists in preparation for a Regional at Marion against the Swayzee Speedkings. The Lions gained the Sectional Championship by victories over Chester 68-49, Rockcreek 57-52, and won the title by defeating the Bobcats of Lancaster by a score of 66-61.
